

ALEXANDRIA COUNTY LECTION IS SPIRITED

Largest Vote in Its History
Expected—Quiet in City,
With Few Votes Cast.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 2.—Today's election in Alexandria is very quiet and it is doubtful if more than 200 out of a total of 1,800 qualified voters will cast their ballots. There is no opposition to the Democratic candidates, R. K. Thornton, for the state senate, and J. Fred Birrell, for the house of delegates. The banks are observing a holiday today and saloons are closed. In Alexandria county the election is spirited and the largest vote in the history of the county is being cast.

Arrangements have been completed for the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Virginia Diocesan branch of the woman's auxiliary of the Board of Missions, which convenes tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock in Christ Episcopal Church. The delegates will be entertained tonight at a reception to be given at the residence of Miss Sallie Stuart, president of the auxiliary.

Fire at 1:30 o'clock this morning did heavy damage to Montgomery street, occupied as a grocery store.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ridd will be held from the residence tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Duffey and E. V. Register.

C. Keith Carlin has purchased from Charles H. Zimmerman, lots 6, 7, 8, 9, in block 1, section 2, of George Washington Park.

HYATTSVILLE.

A large vote is expected today. Besides voting in the long list of candidates, the people will also express themselves upon the four amendments to the State constitution. It is expected that the county will roll up a good sized majority for the measures. No matter whether the Republicans or the Democrats win, this town will carry off the county treasure, the State's attorneyship and the county surveyorship. Edward A. Fuller, Democrat, and Herman E. Burgess, Republican, are the neighbors after the treasure. Vincent A. Sherry, Republican, and S. Martin Peach, Democrat, are out for the State's attorneyship, and Francis T. Lattimer, Democrat, is on as a brother. Edward L. Lattimer, Republican, is the contest for surveyor. The ballot being voted today is long and cumbersome, and it is expected it will be late before complete returns are in.

SECOND HALLOWEEN IS CELEBRATED GAYLY

Young and Old Washington Appeared in Fantastic Dress of Witches' Night.

Halloween No. 2, Nineteen-fifteen, died last midnight after all Washington, young and old, tarbed in the fantastic costumes which appear only on the Witches' Night, had turned the downtown section into a scene of merrymaking gaiety.

Pennsylvania avenue, Ninth street, and the large hotels, were crowded with celebrators, but the police report that the second half of Washington's double-barreled observance was within the law. Hundreds of grotesquely attired dancers participated in the Halloween party given at the Elks Club.

There were supper dances at the Willard and the Shoreham, and special programs at the Elbetti, the Powhatan, the Raleigh, the St. James, and other hotels.

Police Census This Year Will Be More Elaborate

Major Raymond W. Pullman, Superintendent of Police, has had no reports as yet concerning the progress of the police census, instituted yesterday.

The task is essentially to determine the membership of the department, and the tabulation resulting, to show the population of the different sections of the city, will this year be more elaborate than usual. About ten classification particularly relative to ages, have been provided this year. During previous years only five classifications have been used. It is expected that the task of taking the police census will occupy at least a week.

Detroit Votes on Purchase Of City's Trolley Lines

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 2.—Detroit's twenty-year battle for municipal ownership of her street railway system reached its climax today in the vote on the railway commission's plan for buying the city lines. Acquisition by the municipality at a price to be fixed later by six circuit judges was the feature of the plan. Public opinion seems to be divided on the advisability of taking over the car lines.

BOY CHARGED WITH ROBBING DEAD MAN

Edward R. Drew Alleged By Police to Have Admitted
Theft of Watches.

Seventeen-year-old Edward R. Drew is held by the police today on a charge involving the theft of property belonging to a dead man. Inspector Clifford Grant, who, with Detectives Connell and Herman, handled the matter, says he has recovered a watch and chain on information given him by the boy. The jewelry was the property of William Kennedy, of Richmond, fifty years old, an inspector of ordinance for the British army. Kennedy was found dead in a gas-filled room at 729 Ninth street northwest Saturday morning.

The boy is charged with petit larceny. According to Inspector Grant, friends of Kennedy, including an officer in the British Artillery, called at Police Headquarters shortly after the discovery of Kennedy's death, which was attributed to accident, and suggested foul play, by reason of his connection with the British service. The friends also pointed out that a watch and chain, with a miniature steel shell attached, which Kennedy always wore, was missing, and that but 17 cents was found in the dead man's pockets.

The inspector took personal charge of the case, and, although convinced that there was no ground for the suspicion that Kennedy had been the victim of foul play, believed that he had been robbed after his death.

He learned from the woman that kept the house that young Drew, who occupied a room adjoining that in which Kennedy was found, had first reported the odor of gas which led to the discovery of the body.

Investigating, he says young Drew confessed to having taken two watches, one gold and the other silver, from the dead man's room. The boy confessed, according to the police, to having pawned the gold watch and to selling the chain.
